Head Lice

This is a common problem in all schools. With the school holidays starting it is an ideal time to check and treat your children, then we can hopefully come back to school head lice free. The pharmacy or school nurse can help and treatments are often prescribed free for children. If head lice are detected the whole family should treat as a precaution. There is a scheme called the minor ailments scheme which provides access to free medication for those eligible. Please see the attached leaflet giving recommendations regarding the treatment of headlice.
